Was Metzger Killed?

The mysterious disappearance of $1,700 known to have been secreted in the home of Fred Metzger, an eccentric old German, who was first reported to have committed suicide, has now led all who have investigated the case to believe the man was murdered for his money.

Mrs. Charles Dufrain, who lives near his farm home, heard one or more shots on the night of September 9. She paid no attention to them, as she knew Metzger to be such an eccentric fellow that he was apt to do almost anything and had often fired shots about his place at night.
The next morning Dr. M. Porter, a deputy sheriff, called at Metzger's home on business and could not enter the house. Summoning a neighbor, they broke in and found Metzger sitting on a sofa, with a revolver clasped in his hand and a bullet hole behind his left ear. One chamber of the revolver was empty. His body was cold.

Suicide was generally accepted as the cause of death until at the inquest the little iron box in which he was known to have kept the $1,700 was opened and found empty. About $80 was found on his person. It is said that he had nearly the whole of his $1,700 in his house just before his death. The money was from a business deal which he settled up in Unicago last Memorial day and he had repeatedly shown it to people.

The theory is advanced that some money in the house attacked the old man, who defended himself with a revolver and was shot by the burglar. The coroner's jury has heard testimony several times and adjourned each time in the hope of clearing up the mystery of the disappearance of

"Do you know," said Secretary Keisey, of the Bean Jobbers' association in session in Saginaw, "that Michigan is the most important bean state in the union? Our estimated crop this year of 5,000,000 bushels leads them all. It will surprise most people to know, too, that the handlers of beans pay out to farmers and growers about $1,000,000 more annually than the much talked of sugar beet factories. The Michigan bean, also, has the finest quality of any produced, being conceded in the markets to be superior to that of the celebrated New England grown varies Unruly Mob Forces Postponement of Programme, Two Women, Badly Injured, Being Removed by the Police.

Columb , O. - With a panie threatening in a crowd estimated at 50,000 people, surging about the stand erected in the capitol grounds, frantic to secure a glimpse of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the president's daughter, the exercises arranged for the dedication of the McKinley monument were seddenly terminated Friday afternoon after the statue of the martyred president had been hurriedly unveiled by Mrs. Longworth.

The prompt action of the committee on arrangements was regarded as most fortunate, for the crowd was becond control and the shricking of women and children who were caught in the crush was rapidly working the crowd into a frenzy.

Gov. Harris then attempted to quiet the crowd. "Keep back!" he shouted. You are crushing these people in front to death.'

The governor's voice could not be heard 20 feet away, however, on account of the din. The commotion then became so alarming that those on the stand asked Mrs. Longworth to come forward in the hope that a glimpse of her might satisfy the crowd. She came to the front of the stand and it was seen at once that something must be done, and it was decided to unveil the statue at once.

Mrs. Longworth then pulled the ribbon attached to wires which drew the flags covering the statue aside. A man hoisted on another's shoulder grasped the ribbons and the wire and they were quickly torn into fragments by relic seekers.

The crush was stopped for a few moments, but it was soon renewed, and Mrs. Longworth again came to the front of the platform and bowed to the throng. In the meantime, however, the committee on arrangements had decided to defer the addresses until evening at the Memorial hall, and as soon as Mrs. Longworth retired the announcement was made. The people struggling for their lives in the crowd around the stand cheered, but a storm of hisses came from the people on the outskirts of the crowd, who did not understand the situation.

The programme of exercises which had been arranged for the unveiling of the McKinley monument was carried out at Memorial hall at night,

RAGWEED AND HAY FEVER.

The alleged discovery, by the Rev. Wm. H. Allman, of the Detroit Conference, that ragweed tea is a special specific for hay fever commends itself to favorable consideration. It is based on sound medical doctrine, "The hair of the same dog" is an old and undisputed curative theory. Possibly, too, there may be in the discovery more than appears on the surface. Henry Ward Beecher once said that the only sure way to exterminate the Canada thistle was to raise it for market. Then the mildew would attack it, the blight would wither it and the caterpillar would devour it and it would become a loser in the strug-

If the medical virtues of ragweed are once established-it is known to be an effective remedy for incipient dropsy also-and its use as a drug becomes general we may look to see it disappear from the stubbles and the wayside like magic. If this fails then let the government research department take it up. It would confer an inestimable boon upon the farmer, and the rest of the world as well, if it could offer some inducement to mow the stubbles for the aftermath and thus do much to get rid of the most unmitigated weed nuisance that ever gained a foothold in this country.

WITH no flourish of trumpets or beating of drums some of the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad and the engineers having the work in charge made the trip through one of the twin tunnels under the Hudson, thus marking the practical completion of one of the greatest railroad enterprises of the age.

BRYAN'S federal ownership of trunk lines with state control of other roads and Tom Watson's proposal to abolish all federal courts except the supreme court, and the appellate jurisdiction of that, offer a good beginning for the political chaos which is promised for 1908.

A DETROIT exchange, estimating the senatorial chances of Hon. C. E. Townsend, remarks that he is the second choice of almost every body, while first choice is scattered among a good many candidates. If the Detroit writer had inquired more carefully he would have found that Mr. Townsend is the first choice of a great many people. What

Civic Improvement.

Vice-president Cleary presided over the Civic Improvement meeting Thursday night and called for a general discussion of things needed by the city that the society could accomplish.

Mayor VanFossen said that the beau iful Peninsular Grove is in serious danger, as the owner of the central part of it, the prettiest part, is intending to sell off the timber, and has already allowed the bridge builders to cut out forty fine trees. It should be easy to raise enough money by private subscription to purchase the grove outright, or perhaps some wealthy citizen will buy it for the citizens. After the lovely Starkweather grove was cut down people realized what a loss it was; here is a chance to save the loveliest spot accessible to the citizens, near the water and of sightly location. Perhaps options could be secured and renewed from time to time. Prof. Cleary said the city could control for park purposes land outside the limits, and it was decided to appoint a committee to see what can be done to save he grove. This committee is Mayor JanFossen, R. W. Hemphill, Jr., and Supt. W. B. Arbaugh, and it was voted o devote the next meeting to considering their report.

Dr. VanFossen also urged that somehing be done to abate the garbage nuisance, if only to require citizens to keep pails of a size that can be carried, so that ome one will be willing to take away the contents regularly. The cesspool nuisance will be taken care of by an ordinance now working through the council. If the land for the Normal park the political pot stirred up much longer be secured and the Peninsular grove also, Ypsilanti may become the place of a great Chautauqua. The city has done well in securing cement walks, coping and sewers. Now let it see that the care of its trees is put in the hands of the park commissioners. There are places where trees should be set, one man has just set out twenty-five elms that he got for the pulling up. In other places trees should be thinned out. Mr. Cleary said Mr. Newton spoke to him as if the family would willingly lease the Peninsular grove for park purposes. W. L. Beardsley made the report of the third ward committee on children's gardens. Sixteen had started gardens some had wearied, but about a dozen persisted and some fine results had been gained. Louis McLouth had a beautiful flower garden but had dropped his vegetable garden. Many children had supplied their family with vegetables. The committee chose Herbert Lathers' garden as best, those of Albert Lewis and George Stachelwitz tied for second, and Claude Jobson was third. The general committee have not yet met to decide awards. The children had gained much satisfaction from the work.

Mr. Hemphill spoke of the effort being made to secure a beautiful country drive along the middle Ann Arbor road joining the two great campuses, and the other IF Gompers is pleased and Littlefield drive along the river that will join the s pleased over the result in Maine, other park systems of the two cities, much of which will be cared for by the residents. the societies furnishing the shrubs and SECRETARY TAFT is not a man to go trees. He also urged that the park commission be given charge of the trees; about half the 8000 shade trees of the city ought to be cut down, and their value would more than pay the water works bonds, being $200,000. Trees thinned out would do better. In Roches ter they plant whole streets to one kind of tree, magnolias, elms, lindens, etc.

Mr. Hemphill gave a most interesting account of the origin of this civic work at the Chicago world's fair, when all the artists took hold to make a beautiful city. From this came the idea of a magnificent Washington, based on plans gleaned by a committee of great architects, landscape gardeners and artists that went night voiced his disapproval of the through Europe seeking suggestions, and now seventeen other cities are working out plans according to some great design. He said this city and Ann Arbor can do much at slight expense, a little each year, and much has already been accomplished.

Prof. Arbaugh thought the society hould concentrate its work more. Mrs. Burrell read a letter from Mrs. J. C Sharp, president of the Jackson society, asking for information as to the work loing here, and was authorized to answer

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XIII, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 23.

Text of the Lesson, a Comprehensive Quarterly Review - Golden Text, Luke iv, 32-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.] Lesson I.-Jesus and the children (Matt. xviii, 1-14). Golden Text, Matt. xviii, 14, "It is not the will of your Father, which is heaven, that one of these little ones should perish." The disciples often talked about being great, but Jesus always taught humility for the believer in this present life and that our greatness would come when His own came, in the kingdom, in the resurrection, at His second coming. He assures us that His own can never perish, and that angels are our guardians, angels who behold the face of Lesson II.—The duty of forgiveness (Matt. xviii, 21-35). Golden Text, Matt. vi. 12. "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." While there is nothing to be done on our part to obtain the forgiveness of sins (Acts xiii, 38, 39; Rom. iii, 24) we will not enjoy that forgiveness nor walk in fellowship with God unless we from the heart as freely forgive others as God for Christ's sake forgives us.

LESSON III.—The good Samaritan (Luke x, 25-37). Golden Text, Matt. v. 7, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." The law is as substitute. helpless to deal with a sinner as were the priest and the Levite who passed by the wounded man; but He who is the end of the law for righteousness to every believer took the sinner's place, and by His own work saves him and cares for him.

LESSON IV.—Jesus teaching how to pray (Luke xi, 1-13). Golden Text, Luke "Lord, teach us to pray." There is nothing within our reach so great as prayer, and if we only knew and trusted our Heavenly Father as we might and as He would like us to do what wondrous answers to prayer we would see in accordance with John xiv, 13, 14; xv, 7; Jer. xxxiii, 3; Ps. lxii, 5. But it must be a whole hearted seeking and for the glory of God in the interest of His kingdom.

Lesson V.—Jesus dines with a Pharisee (Luke xiv, 1-14). Golden Text, Luke xiv, 11, "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted." Our Lord seems to have accepted every opportunity to meet the different classes of people who opened their doors to Him. but He never failed to be faithful and true in His testimony, so here He has healing for the sick and a word for the always and doing good to the poor. LESSON VI.—False excuses (Luke xiv, 15-24). Golden Text, Luke xiv, 18, "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." Men seem to think it doing God a favor to accept His Son and His salvation and His kingdom. They are so occupied with their own affairs, home or business, that they have neither heart nor time for God. and not until it is forever too late will they know what they have lost.

LESSON VII.—The parable of the two Mal. iii, 7, "Return unto me and I will return unto you, saith the Lord." The great complaint of God is that people do not know Him, and the Lord Jesus sums it all up in His prayer in these words, "Oh, righteous Father, the world hath not known Thee!" (John xvii, 25.) Some are as dead as a piece of metal, some are like the wandering sheep and many are like these brothers, neither of whom knew their father.

Lesson VIII.—The judge, the Pharisee and the publican (Luke xviii. 1-14). Golden Text, Luke xviii, 13, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner." He who spent so much time in prayer and knew its power and privilege is ever urging us to perseverance and importunity in prayer. If we were in as full accord with God as He was, what answers we would have, but true prayer implies a conscious need, an emptiness, like that | the kind that occurred in July last.

LESSON IX.—The rich young ruler (Mark x, 17-31). Golden Text, Matt. xvi, 24, "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me." This man in his earnestness and zeal might seem to illustrate true prayer, but he went away without life eternal, for he was too much occupied with his possessions and with himself; he was really an idolater. Riches are more apt to be a curse than a blessing.

Lesson X.-The blind man and Zacchaeus (Luke xviii, 35, to xix, 10). Golden Text, Luke xix, 19, "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Not Bartimaeus, who was one of the two healed as He left the city, but the one healed as He entered the city. These three blind men and Zacchaeus all illustrate true seekers for they all obtained what they sought and more. The blind were poor and empty, and Zacchaeus was rich, yet, unlike the rich ruler, he esteemed Christ more than his riches.

LESSON XI.-Jesus enters Jerusalem in triumph (Matt. xxi, 1-17). Golden Text, Matt. xxi, 9, "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord." The literal fulfillment of prophecy, of which we have here an illustration, must be firmly held to in all our Bible study, so we confidently look for just as literal a fulfillment of other predictions in Zechariah, such as ii, 10-12; viii, 23; xiv, 4, 5. The Scripture cannot be broken; the Scripture must be fulfilled.

LESSON XII.—Jesus silences the Pharisees and Sadducees (Mark xii, 13-27) Golden Text, Mark xii, 17, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's." The Scriptures settle all difficulties for those who are subject to them, and those who will not have God as their authority may take Caesar, but must abide by the consequences.

Ald. Max moved that the city attorney be instructed to get an injunction preventing the park commission from molesting, selling or destroying the buildings on the fair ground park, particularly the grand stand. There was some talk as to whether the commission have a right to destroy city property. The city attorney thought the commission ought to do something towards fixing up the park instead of destroying what there is and said the council should authorize him to stop the destruction of the grand stand by injunction or other means. Ald. Beal suggested that the mayor appoint a committee of three to act with the city attorney in the matter but this did not meet favor, and Ald. Max' motion carried.

At times I was confined to my bed for periods ranging from three weeks to two months and was under the physician's care most of the time for three years. I do not know the cause of my trouble but I was prostrated with weakness and, although I took a great deal of medicine, nothing seemed to give me strength. Mother's Effort to Check Child's Curiosity Proves Futile.

A Boston three-year-old, like Mr. Kipling's elephant's child is distinguished by her "insatiable curiosity." Bitter and embarrassing experiences have led her long-suffering mother to recognize this fact.

Accordingly, when accidents in the kitchen and the expectation of guests to dine, rendered the purchase of new water glasses accessary, Mrs. S-200k her daughter into her confidence.

"Sarah," she said, "these are new glasses. I bought them at Stearns' yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Robert drove me over to the shop with Jim and the runabout. Robert wore his 'butternut' livery and his brown derby. I paid six dollars for the glasses, and had them sent. Now you know all about them, and I positively forbid you to ask a single question about them when you see them on the 'table.'

Sarah wore a subdued look during the process of the meal, and Mrs. S- was beginning to congratulate herself upon the effectiveness of her lesson, when an eager and interested expression came into Sarah's face, and she piped in her shrill but engaging voice: "Mother, what did you do with the old glasses?"

Hinky Dink and Barrie.

H. G. Wells of England, the forecast-novel man and sociologist, met an interesting person in Chicago and in a magazine article tells all about the experience. "I made," he says, "the acquaintance of Alderman Kenna, who is better known I found throughout the states as 'Hinky Dink, saw his two saloons and something of the Chinese quarters about him. He is a compact, upright little man, with iron-gray hair, a clear blue eye and a dry manner. He wore a bowler hat through all our experiences in common and kept his hands in his jacket pockets. How Rhodes and Beit Met.

Mr. Rhodes once told a circle of friends after dinner the story of his first meeting with Beit. "I called at Porges' late one evening,' he said, "and there was Beit working away as usual. 'Do you never take a rest?' asked. 'Not often,' he replied. 'Well, what's your game?' said I. I am going to control the whole diamond output before I am much older,' he answered, as he got off his stool. 'That's funny,' I said. 'I have made up my mind to do the same; we had better join hands," Join hands they did. Unlike Alfred Beit, Cecil Rhodes had small patience with arithmetical details. Once this characteristic involved him in a difficulty. Pitching a balance sheet into the pile of papers before Beit, he exclaimed desperately, Here, you understand things; for heaven's sake tell me how I stand."

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play-when in health-and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

YPSILANTI, SEPT. 20, 1906 The Forest Avenue Bridge. The mason work on the Forest avenue oridge is approaching completion and is well worth looking at. The back walls and ving abutments are completed and the north center pier, all that is left to do is tery should be planned with reference to the south center pier, the putting in of its general beauty and unity of design the thirteen new I-beams that will extend rather than by personal taste of each lot the entire width of the bridge between the owner, and this model building is a bene present beams, and the laying of the fit to every one who has an interest in concrete floor. Jones & Rogers, the Cleveland contractors who are doing the of the cemetery is in line with the policy work, have done a very thorough and of eliminating the personal and the exandsome job, and the bridge will be a ubstantial and creditable structure when done. The cost will approximate $5000, probably, as everything has been carried out in a workmanlike and enduring manner. Work began early in July and the contractors had a hard time to get labor. Men were secured from Detroit and their fare and lodging paid, but they never showed up, and local help has been uncertain. Most of the time of late they have had 20 to 25 men on the pay roll, however, and recently the work has been progressing finely, so that they hope to finish Oct. 10 or 15. They have been at work seven weeks. The old wing abutments were blasted off down to where they were firm, and then the new abutments were built out five feet beyond the old and a double wall built up with a "batter" or slant of three feet. Each of the four wing abutments and center piers rests on piles driven into hard pan, tail is of the best material and workmana cofferdam having been built to shut ship. out the water, so that the work could go on at the hard pan level. The ground was tested till they were sure they had reached hard pan before the piles were driven. The four wing walls have a solid and re-assuring appearance. The back walls at each end are entirely new, and are also built on piles, and all the concrete structures rest on a concrete pase much wider than themselves. The back wall is 3 feet, 6 inches wide at the pase and 2 feet at the top.
